July, 2014

Dear Reader,

Welcome to Brill's 2014 Jewish Studies catalog in which we present the most recent publications in our extensive Jewish Studies program.

We are pleased to mention that the major reference work Encyclopedia of Hebrew Language and Linguistics is also completely available online, on our BrillOnline Reference Works platform (see p. 4). Full-text search abilities and extensive cross-reference functions make it the ideal way to use this product. More information about the print edition on p. 10.

Launched last year, the Journal of Jewish Languages is now in its second year, and the Free Access 4 You offer is still available for individuals until the end of 2014. More information can be found in our Journals chapter on p. 32.

New volumes in our Jewish Studies book series:

- A Universal Art. Hebrew Grammar across Disciplines and Faiths (Vidro, N., Zwiep, I.E. and Olszowy-Schlanger, J.; Studies in Jewish History and Culture, vol. 46)
- See Under: Shoah (De Kesel, M., Siertsema, B. and Szurmiak, K.; The Brill Reference Library of Judaism, vol. 41)
- The Comfort of Kin (Schreiber, M.; Brill's Series in Jewish Studies, vol. 51)
- Jewish Youth around the World, 1990-2010 (Cohen, E.H.; Jewish Identities in a Changing World, vol. 24)
- and many more

Our Jewish Philosophy program is growing more and more, with four new volumes in 2014 in the new Library of Contemporary Jewish Philosophers series. These titles are available in hardback and paperback (more information can be found on pp. 17-18).

If you have any questions about Brill's new and forthcoming titles, please don't hesitate to contact us at marketing@brill.com.

To stay informed throughout the year about our latest titles in Jewish Studies and to receive special discount opportunities and free trial offers, please subscribe to the bi-monthly Jewish Studies E-Newsletter by visiting our website: brill.com/email-newsletters.

About Brill's Online Resources

The majority of Brill's Online Resources are or will be available on four state-of-the-art platforms, each of which are home to one specific content type:

- booksandjournals.brillonline.com (Brill's Online Books and Journals)
- referenceworks.brillonline.com (Brill's Online Reference Works)
- bibliographies.brillonline.com (Brill's Online Bibliographies)
- primarysources.brillonline.com (Brill's Online Primary Source Collections)

All new platforms have been created in close cooperation with researchers and are based on the newest technological developments.

All new platforms offer

- personalization tools
- social bookmarking
- alerting services
- different search and browsing options (e.g. by title, by selection of titles, all titles)

BrillOnline for librarians

- clear distinction between subscribed and unsubscribed data
- Shibboleth and Athens login
- COUNTER compliant usage statistics
- SUSHI user statistics
- compliance with the Web Content Accessibility Guidelines (PAS 78)
- admin tool for librarians (incl. open URL preferences)
- branding options to institutional customers
- no DRM
- free MARC records

Brill offers Online Resources on an outright purchase or calendar year subscription basis.

Outright purchase

- An outright purchase gives the library full archival rights.
- An outright purchase comprises a one-time fee, followed by annual installment fees (if the content is still being updated).
- Installment fees are charged from year 2 onwards, giving the library access to new content.
- All BrillOnline licenses are unlimited site licenses.

A copy of our license agreement for outright purchases can be found at brill.com/resources/librarians

Please note that Brill does not charge hosting / maintenance / platform fees for outright purchases.

Calendar year subscription

- Brill offers calendar year subscriptions and therefore the fee is pro-rated if the subscription starts during the year.
- All BrillOnline licenses are unlimited site licenses.
- The library has access to new content updates issued during the period of the subscription.
- There are no archival rights if the library decides not to renew the subscription.

A copy of our license agreement for subscriptions can be found at brill.com/resources/librarians

BrillOnline Discovery

In 2013 Brill introduced BrillOnline Discovery a unique research tool for scholars. Now there is an easy to use tool to search and discover the high quality online content Brill offers. Discover what Brill's journals, e-books, reference works, bibliographies and primary sources offer from one location, BrillOnline.com Discovery.

BrillOnline Patron Select

Until now, we have offered E-Book Collections in all of our subject areas, but from 2013 a patron-driven acquisition model is available for e-books, called Brill Patron Select. Brill will continue to offer E-Book collections, alongside Brill Patron Select and Brill Select (individual title selection). Under the Brill Patron Select model, the library's patrons are given access to all available Brill e-books within chosen subject areas on BrillOnline.com. During the period of the agreement, purchases of Brill e-books are determined by the demands of library patrons, within the parameters agreed between the Library and Brill.

BrillOnline Individual access

With the introduction of BrillOnline.com and the launch of the new platforms Brill now offers access to individuals. Scholars, researchers, students or others who want to make use of one of Brill's high quality online resources are now offered access using a personal user-id / password combination.

Individuals can purchase articles, chapters and e-books on BrillOnline Books and Journals. Brill's renowned reference works and bibliographies but also Brill's primary source collections can be accessed for a set period of time, 1,7 or 30 days.

Full details can be found in the FAQ or help sections of the BrillOnline.com platforms.

BrillOnline Books and Journals

BrillOnline Books and Journals (booksandjournals.brillonline.com) is among the richest scholarly sources of its kind, offering online access to Brill's quality book and journal publications. For the first time you can search across all the Brill books and journals on one platform. You will find the full text of approximately 4,000 e-books and more than 200 journals. The platform contains over 200,000 book chapters and journal articles and is updated on a daily basis.

Features and benefits

- same content as in the print edition
- intuitive tools including easy downloading, printing, saving options
- one point of entry for Brill's e-book and journal content

BrillOnline Reference Works

BrillOnline Reference Works (referenceworks.brillonline.com) was launched in 2012 and is the dedicated platform for Brill's renowned and quality reference works. Currently BrillOnline Reference Works hosts over 30 reference works, including many prestigious publications such as the Encyclopaedia of Islam Online, New Pauly Online, the Encyclopedia of Jews in the Islamic World Online, Religion Past and Present Online. The number of online reference works offered by Brill is growing rapidly. The new platform for Brill's online reference works allows for cross-searching, bookmarking, saving and meets the latest technological standards. It will be easier and faster to find the information you are looking for. To make full use of the personal tools take a minute to create your personal account. A personal account will give you the option to save searches, search history, store articles for later use and much more.

BrillOnline Bibliographies

Bibliographies assist scholars in finding the right resources quickly. With products like Index Islamicus and the Linguistic Bibliography Online Brill offers heavily used and valuable research tools. bibliographies.brillonline.com offers easy access to these important bibliographies. By using either the search or advance search you can easily choose the content you are looking for by selecting one or more titles. The personal tools offer the option to save your search and search histories, create search alerts, as well as to print results.

BrillOnline Primary Sources

BrillOnline Primary Sources (primarysources.brillonline.com) launched in 2013 will offer access to more than 70 online primary source collections in an attractive and easy to use online environment. The materials offered in our collections are unique, rare, and often absolutely essential for scholars. More than six million pages have been scanned and can be accessed. Titles in our primary-source collections are carefully selected with assistance from our academic advisory boards. Sourcing partners include The British Library, the Bodleian Library, Cambridge University Libraries, the Bibliothèque nationale de France, the Herzog August Bibliothek, the Biblioteca Nazionale Centrale di Firenze, the Russian State Historical Archive, the New York Public Library, and Human Rights Internet.

BrillOnline Primary Sources offers

- one point of entry to a vast collection of high quality source materials
- the perfect place to start, perform and finish your research especially interesting for specialized scholars
- high quality images, including full color images
- zoom options ranging from 25% to 300% of original
- great search and filter options on collection and document level
- fast and easy searching and browsing through over 6,000,000 images

Encyclopedia of Hebrew Language and Linguistics Online

Edited by Geoffrey Khan

The Encyclopedia of Hebrew Language and Linguistics offers a systematic and comprehensive treatment of all aspects of the history and study of the Hebrew language from its earliest attested form to the present day. The encyclopedia contains overview articles that provide a readable synopsis of current knowledge of the major periods and varieties of the Hebrew language as well as thematically-organized entries which provide further information on individual topics. With over 850 entries and approximately 400 contributing scholars, the Encyclopedia of Hebrew Language and Linguistics is the authoritative reference work for students and researchers in the fields of Hebrew linguistics, general linguistics, Biblical studies, Hebrew and Jewish literature, and related fields.

Features and Benefits

The Context of Scripture Online

Canonical Compositions, Monumental Inscriptions and Archival Documents from the Biblical World

General Editor William W. Hallo.
Associate Editor K. Lawson Younger, Jr.

The Context of Scripture illuminatingly presents the multi-faceted world of ancient writing that forms the colorful background to the literature of the Hebrew Bible. The online version makes the content of this unique and valuable reference work even more accessible.

Designed as a thorough and enduring reference work for all engaged in the study of the Bible and the ancient Near East, it provides reliable access to a broad, balanced, and representative collection of Ancient Near Eastern texts that have an impact on the interpretation of the Bible. Each entry includes an introduction to the text, an authoritative translation, commentary, and bibliographic references.

The online version is based on the substantial three-volume work and will be updated with the fourth volume, currently planned for publication in 2014.

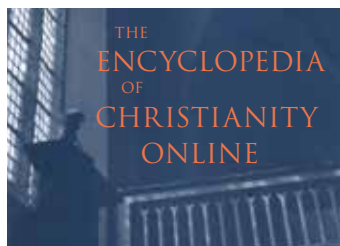

Features and Benefits

- Includes ALL volumes of the Context of Scripture
- Browsable index including subjects, names, and places
- Allows for basic and advanced searches

The Encyclopedia of Christianity Online

Edited by Erwin Fahlbusch, Jan Milič Lochman, John Mbiti, Jaroslav Pelikan, and Lukas Vischer

Translator and English-language editor:

Geoffrey W. Bromiley

Statistical Editor: David B. Barrett

This new online encyclopedia describes modern-day Christian beliefs and communities in the context of 2000 years of apostolic tradition and Christian history. Based on the third, revised edition of the critically acclaimed German work Evangelisches Kirchenlexikon, this comprehensive and up-to-date encyclopedia includes all 5 volumes of the print edition of 1999-2008. It has become a standard reference work for the study of Christianity past and present.

Comprehensive, up-to-date, reflecting the highest standards in scholarship yet intended for a wide range of readers, the Encyclopedia also looks outward beyond Christianity, considering other world religions and philosophies as it paints the overall religious and sociocultural picture in which the Christianity finds itself.

Describing Christianity in its global context, the Encyclopedia is a fully international work, with articles written by scholars from many countries and cultural backgrounds. Separate articles for every continent and for over 170 countries present both the history and the current situation of the Christian faith in all its rich spiritual and theological diversity around the world.

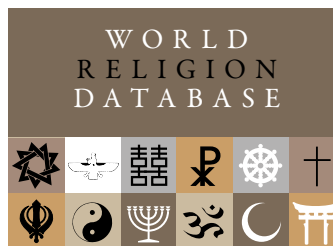

Features and benefits

- Comprehensive, authoritative, up to date
- Both historical and contemporary in scope
- Scholarly yet accessible to general readers
- More than 1,700 articles
- Based on the original five volume print edition
- Global context, separate articles for every continent and for over 170 countries

World Religion Database

Editors: Todd M. Johnson and Brian J. Grim

Co-published with the Institute on Culture, Religion and World Affairs, Boston University

The World Religion Database (WRD) contains detailed statistics on religious affiliation for every country in the world. It is the major source to render a definitive picture of international religious demography. The WRD provides both current and historical data, as well as sophisticated forecasts of future developments. For each of the world's religions, best estimates at multiple dates for the period 1900 to 2050 are given. The WRD also offers access to the sources which underlie the figures in the database, such as censuses and surveys. Through an interactive feedback mechanism users can leave comments on sources or methodology related to any figure reported in the WRD. The WRD is constantly updated with new sets of data as they become available, such as estimates of religious affiliation at the province level and religious freedom information for all countries in the world. No other database available today is as comprehensive.

Features and Benefits

- Global comparative figures for every major religion
- Population and religious adherents for every country and United Nations region
- Access to source material on religious affiliation (census and survey figures)
- Breakdown of major religions into traditions (e.g. Sunni-Shi'as within Islam)
- Multiple data points to compare growth rates (1900, 1950, 1970, 2000, 2005, 2025, 2050)
- Feedback mechanism for users to comment on data, sources and methodology
- Updated quarterly

The Language Environment of First Century Judaea

Jerusalem Studies in the Synoptic Gospels—Volume Two

Edited by Randall Buth and R. Steven Notley

The Language Environment of First Century Judaea challenges the long-held assumption of New Testament scholarship that only two languages, Aramaic and Greek, were in common use in the land of Israel in the first century. Hebrew should now be moved out of its restricted, marginal status within first-century language use and the impact on New Testament studies.

Studies in Semitic Languages and Linguistics

Editorial board: A.D. Rubin and C.H.M. Versteegh

The distinct traits shared by the Semitic languages determine the essential unity of research in these languages. Studies in Semitic Languages and Linguistics has been a prominent forum for linguistic publications concerning the Semitic languages ever since its foundation in 1967. The series includes both books written in the philological tradition of research and ones applying modern linguistic theories. Such sub-disciplines as descriptive linguistics, comparative linguistics, socio-linguistics et cetera all fall within the scope of the series. While studies of individual aspects of individual languages are accepted on a selective basis, the series specifically includes monographs, collaborative volumes, and reference works of a wider scope.

The Acquisition of Hebrew
Phonology and Morphology

Edited by Outi Bat-El,
Tel-Aviv University

The articles in this volume contribute to the joint enterprise between theoretical linguistics and research in the development of phonology and morphology. When it comes to the acquisition of phonology, Hebrew is a new member in the limited pool of studied languages (English, Dutch, German, French, Spanish, Portuguese, Japanese, Greek, and just a few more). The fresh data provided in the present volume allow us to evaluate old issues and address new ones.

Jewish Identities in a Changing World

Edited by Eliezer Ben-Rafael, Yosef Gorny, and Judit Bokser Liwerant

This series brings together contributions addressing the question of the unity versus conflict, closeness versus alienation, and convergence versus divergence entrenched in the infinite variety of collective identities illustrated by Jews in this era. The titles included investigate—each volume under its own angle—the principles, narratives, visions and commands which constitute in different places the essentials of Jewishness. As a rule, they ask whether or not one is still allowed to speak, at the beginning of this new century, of one—single and singular—Jewish People.

Cantos and Strophes in Biblical Hebrew Poetry III

Psalms 90–150 and Psalm 1

Pieter van der Lugt

Formal and thematic devices demonstrate that Hebrew poetry is composed of a consistent pattern of cantos (stanzas) and strophes. The formal devices include quantitative balance on the level of cantos in terms of the number of verselines, verbal repetitions and transition markers.

Reflections on the Silence of God

A Discussion with Marjo Korpel and Johannes de Moor

Edited by Bob Becking, Utrecht University

Should divine silence be seen as a subtle way of Gods interference with human affairs? Or is to be seen as a sign of his absence? Korpel and de Moor produced a provocative monograph on this topic. This volume contains a set of reactions to their position.

Ancient Judaism and Early Christianity

(Arbeiten zur Geschichte des antiken Judentums und des Urchristentums)

Executive Editors: Cilliers Breytenbach, Berlin, and Martin Goodman, Oxford

Ancient Judaism & Early Christianity began in 1976, as Arbeiten zur Geschichte des antiken Judentums und des Urchristentums, with the publication of M. Hengel's Die Zeloten. The series, which includes monographs and collections of essays, covers a range of topics, typically focusing on areas of mutual influence or points of controversy between Judaism and Christianity in the first centuries CE. Recent titles published in the series have included important studies of Josephus, of the Jewish background of Paul's writings, and of the historical Jesus within his Jewish context.

Second Corinthians in the Perspective of Late Second Temple Judaism

Edited by Reimund Bieringer, Emmanuel Nathan, Didier Pollefeyt and Peter J. Tomson, all of the Catholic University of Leuven

In the framework of a larger research project into 'New Perspectives on Paul and the Jews', eight scholars from Europe, Israel, and North America join forces in querying Paul's relationship to Jews and Judaism. The sample text selected for this inquiry is the Second Letter to the Corinthians, a document particularly suited for this purpose as it reflects violent clashes between Paul and rivalling Jews and Jewish Christians.

Flavius Josephus: Translation and Commentary

Edited by Steve Mason

Flavius Josephus, the first-century Jewish historian, is without a doubt the most important witness to ancient Judaism from the close of the biblical period to the aftermath of the destruction of the temple in 70 CE. This project aims to assist every serious reader of Josephus by providing a new literal translation, along with a commentary suggesting literary and historical connections. This is the first comprehensive literary-historical commentary on the works of Flavius Josephus in English.

European Journal of Jewish Studies

The Journal of the European Association for Jewish Studies (formerly EAJS Newsletter)

Edited by Giuseppe Veltri, University of Hamburg, and Diana Matut, University of Halle-Wittenberg

The European Journal of Jewish Studies (EJJS) is the Journal of the European Association for Jewish Studies (EAJS). Its main purpose is to publish high-quality research articles, essays and shorter contributions on all aspects of Jewish Studies. Submissions are all double blind peer-reviewed. Additionally, EJJS seeks to inform its readers on current developments in Jewish Studies: it carries comprehensive review-essays on specific topics, trends and debated questions, as well as regular book-reviews. A further section carries reports on conferences, symposia, and descriptions of research projects in every area of Jewish Studies.

The European Association for Jewish Studies (EAJS), founded in 1981, is a professional association for scholars, teachers, and researchers in Jewish Studies at European institutions of Higher Education and Research, with the principal aim of advancing Jewish Studies in Europe. The EAJS aims to promote, support, and co-ordinate research and teaching of Jewish Studies at university level in Europe. Its activities include a quadrennial international Congress, held in various locations in Europe; an annual Colloquium; a website www.eurojewishstudies.org with online resources including a Directory of Jewish Studies in Europe, and a Funders Database; a Funding Information and Advisory Service (available to EAJS members); and publication of the European Journal of Jewish Studies.

Intellectual History of the Islamicate World

Editor-in-Chief: Sabine Schmidtke

In the medieval, late medieval and pre-modern world of Islam, Muslims, Jews and Christians constituted a unique cultural and intellectual commonality. They shared a language, Arabic (and at times Persian), which they spoke in daily life and which they also used for their theological, philosophical, legal and scientific writings. Moreover, they often read the same books, so that a continuous, multi-dimensional exchange of ideas, texts, and forms of discourse was the norm rather than the exception. While this has been amply demonstrated for some selected periods and regions, scholars usually opt for a one-dimensional approach with an (often exclusive) focus on either Muslim, Jewish or Christian authors and their writings.

The journal Intellectual History of the Islamicate World provides a forum for research that systematically crosses the boundaries between three major disciplines of academia and research, viz. Islamic Studies, Jewish Studies and the study of (Eastern) Christianity. It encourages discussion among representatives of these and related disciplines, with a view to promoting a new understanding of intellectual history in all its facets throughout the Islamicate world, from its emergence until modern times and from different methodological perspectives. Intellectual History of the Islamicate World covers such themes as philosophy, theology, exegesis, law and legal methodology, sciences and medicine.

IMAGES

A Journal of Jewish Art and Visual Culture

Edited by Steven Fine, Vivian Mann, Margaret Olin, and Maya Balakirsky Katz

The study of Jewish art and visual culture, which has been cultivated for over a century in European, American and Israeli institutions, has burgeoned in the last fifteen years. Major universities have established graduate programs that integrate Jewish art and visual studies and Jewish museums dot the landscape in Israel, Europe and North America.

Contemporary scholarship on Jewish art and visual culture intersects with concerns of the wider academy; a lively interchange among scholars has ensued. The field has now achieved the breadth and maturity to sustain an international journal that represents the interests of this interdisciplinary community of scholars.

IMAGES invites scholarly articles on Jewish art and visual culture, ranging in time from Greco-Roman antiquity to the present day. Articles may concentrate on any geographical area in which Jewish participation had an impact, and any discipline, including architecture, painting, sculpture, treasury arts, book arts, graphics, textiles, photography and film, and other areas of the visual environment. In addition, IMAGES welcomes articles on historiography and theory, as well as textual studies that reflect on the themes of the journal.

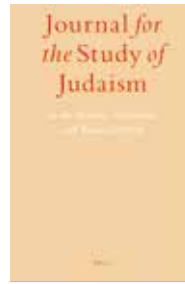

Each edition of IMAGES will include 4-5 articles; reviews of books and exhibitions; and notices of scholarly conferences or symposia on Jewish Art.

Journal of Jewish Languages

Editors: Ofra Tirosh-Becker, The Hebrew University of Jerusalem, and Sarah Bunin Benor, Hebrew Union College - Jewish Institute of Religion

The peer-reviewed Journal of Jewish Languages (JJL) constitutes a venue for academic research in the multifaceted field of Jewish Languages. Jewish languages are the languages spoken and written by Jews in their communities around the world. Among these are Yiddish, Judeo-Spanish, Judeo-Arabic, Jewish Aramaic, Judeo-Italian, Judeo-French, Judeo-Provençal, Judeo-Persian, Jewish English, Jewish Malayalam and more. Although these belong to a variety of genealogical language families, Jewish languages have common linguistic features, thus constituting a distinct field of research.

The Journal of Jewish Languages encourages comparative studies across the different Jewish languages as well as in-depth linguistic and philological research of the individual languages and their varieties. The JJL promotes studies that focus on diverse aspects, such as the interactions of these languages with other languages (especially Hebrew, Aramaic, and the surrounding non-Jewish languages), sociolinguistics, translation traditions, and more. Articles in this journal focus on medieval, modern, and contemporary Jewish languages and are based on manuscripts, printed material, orally transmitted translations, field work recordings, online speech samples, and other sources.

Research on Hebrew will be considered for publication in JJL only if it relates to other languages Jews have spoken or written.

The JJL encourages diverse methodological and theoretical approaches from dialectology, sociolinguistics, discourse analysis, historical linguistics, formal linguistics, philology, and other fields.

Medieval Encounters

Jewish, Christian and Muslim Culture in Confluence and Dialogue

Executive Editor: Ryan Szpiech, University of Michigan

Medieval Encounters promotes discussion and dialogue across cultural, linguistic and disciplinary boundaries on the interactions of Jewish, Christian and Muslim cultures during the period from the fourth through to the sixteenth century C.E.

Culture is defined in its widest form to include art, all manner of history, languages, literature, medicine, music, philosophy, religion and science. The geographic limits of inquiry will be bounded only by the limits in which the traditions interacted. Confluence, too, will be construed in its widest form to permit exploration of more indirect interactions and influences and to permit examination of important subjects on a comparative basis.

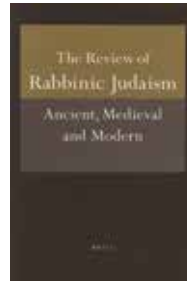

Articles may deal with specific texts, events or phenomena, as well as theories of interpretations and analysis. The journal will actively promote a representative spread across all the humanistic disciplines and scholarly communities. All articles will be refereed by members of the editorial board and other scholars on the basis of their scholarly merit and the degree to which they promote our understanding of Jewish, Christian and Muslim relations in the Middle Ages.

Review of Rabbinic Judaism

Ancient, Medieval, and Modern
(Formerly The Annual of Rabbinic Judaism)

Edited by Alan J. Avery-Peck

The Review of Rabbinic Judaism, the first and only journal to focus upon Rabbinic Judaism in particular, will publish principal articles, essays on method and criticism, systematic debates (Auseinandersetzungen), occasional notes, long book reviews, reviews of issues of scholarly journals, assessments of textbooks and instructional materials, and other media of academic discourse, scholarly and educational alike.

The Review fills the gap in the study of Judaism, which is left by the prevailing division of Rabbinic Judaism among the standard historical periods (ancient, medieval, modern) that in fact do not apply; and by the common treatment of the Judaism in bits and pieces (philosophy, mysticism, law homiletics, institutional history, for example). No journal in "Jewish studies" focuses upon the study of religion, let alone upon the single most important Judaism of all time.

Zutot

Perspectives on Jewish Culture

Editor-in-Chief: Shlomo Berger

Zutot: Perspectives on Jewish Culture aims to fill a gap that has become more and more conspicuous among the wealth of scholarly periodicals in the field of Jewish Studies. Whereas existing journals provide space to medium and large sized articles, they neglect the small but poignant contributions, which may be as important as the extended, detailed study. Zutot serves as a platform for small but incisive contributions, and provides them with a distinct context. The substance of these contributions is derived from larger perspectives and, though not always presented in an exhaustive way, will have an impact on contemporary discussions. Zutot covers Jewish culture in its broadest sense, i.e. encompassing various academic disciplines—literature, languages and linguistics, philosophy, art, sociology, politics and history—and reflects binary oppositions such as religious and secular, high and low, written and oral, male and female culture.
